Surrogate Bergen has issued citations for a hearing on April 24, in regard to the settlement of the accounts of Julius Davenport, as executor of William Mackie, who died in a hot on the Nebraska frontier in 1881. He had lived as a miser, although his property was estimated to be worth $150,000. Considerable of it is in Brooklyn, and he made a will there in 1874, leaving it to his relatives. Hezekiel Trimmer, of New-Jersey, has secured judgment of $4,500 against the estate for board and lodging furnished to Mackie. One of his heirs has been recently found in Scotland.

DOINGS OF THE WORKINGMEN. DENOUNCING THE ATTACK ON RIDLEY'S-STRIKES

The regular meeting of the Central Labor Union was held yesterday afternoon at Odd-Fellows' Hall, Second-st, and the Bowery. Resolutions were adopted condemning all acts of violence in the settlement of labor troubles as ancalled for and barbarous, and calling upon every member of the Central Labor Union to investigate the recent outrage at Kidley's, and use every means to bring the guilty persons to justice. A committee of three was appointed to visit Ridley's and present the resolution. It was resolved to beyond all firms handling the cigars of Stration & Storm, and resolutions were passed strongly condemning the Cigarmakers' International Union, and particularly Adolph Strasser, the president, for helping the firm.

A committee of three was appointed to visit Police Headquarters and protest against the outrages on pickets. The Comstock bill, making it a misdemeanor for union men to speak to people employed in shops in which strikes were going on was denounced as a revolutionary measure. The committee on organization was instructed to visit the slaughter house butchers and help them to organize.

A meeting of the Nynek shoe operators was held

A meeting of the Nynek shoe operators was held on Saturday night and it was agreed that no one would accept work in Jackman's factory until the lockout of the button-hole makers was settled.

The New-York State Engineers Union held a meeting yesterday at No. 352 West Thirty-fifth-st. A committee was appointed to make an investigation of the bullers, and report at a future meeting. The Tugboat Employes Union met yesterday afternoon at No. 193 Bowery. The committee on hospitud dues reported that they thought it best to make no fight for the retention of the dues, and it was agreed unanimously to accept the recommendation of the committee.

There will be a general movement among the building trades on April 1 for a reduction of the hours of labor to nine a day. Last week the laborers employed by Contractor Richardson on the buildings in Sixty-first-st, between Tenth and Eleventh aves, struck for non-payment of wages. The strike lasted three days. The tin-rooters struck against the employment of non-union men on the building at One-hundred-and-nineteenth-st, and Madison-ave. The strike was settled by the non-union men joining the union. The stair-builders struck against the employment of non-union men on the building in One-hundred-and-seventh-st, between First and Second aves. The strike was successful. ENDING HIS LIFE WITH A PISTOL SHOT.

The dead body of a man, age about thirty-nine, was found by Officer Moncrieff yesterday morning in a vacant lot at Sixty-third-st., and Avenue-A. A bullet wound was in the right temple and a revolver lay on the ground near by. The body was conveyed to the Fifty-ninth-st. police station. Papers in the dead man's pockets led to his identification as Oswald C. Christopher of No. 358 Hudson-st., a German who was brought to this country when a child. For many years he was a letter carrier; but through drink he lost his place.

He became an agent, or pedlar, for the American Paper Pail Company, of No. 5 and 7 East fourth-st. This winter he found much trouble in making a living, although he had only a wife to support. Last Wednesday he bid his wife good-by and said that he would be home early, as he wished to attend a large meeting of the United Order of Foresters, of ENDING HIS LIFE WITH A PISTOL SHOT.

WHAT THE GOVERNMENT SHOULD DO-THE LAST OF PELIX ADLER'S LECTURES.

WHAT THE GOVERNMENT SHOULD DO—THE LAST OF FELIX ADLER'S LECTURES.

Professor Felix Adler, in Chickering Hall yesterday morning, finished his series of lectures on Tenement-House Reform, speaking on "The HelpingHand of Government." He said:

When we come to consider the matter further, we are brought face to face with the question of Government interference. The feeling is often expressed that the powers of Government should be as far as possible curtailed. In accient times the maxim was, the people most governed are the people best governed.
Even to-day Bismarck has shown by his actions that at bottom that maxim is his. We are inclined to go to the other extreme, and limit as far as possible the powers of Government. The evils of the tenement house system of this city are due to the estates which neglect the comfort of their tenants,
and to the landlords who demand exorbitant rents.
The laboring classes are unable to binid homes for themselves, and the law of morality and common decency binds the Government to see to it that these houses shall not prove fatal to the lives and morality of the immates. If the houses are overcrowded the Government must interfere. It must compel a reduction of the number of inmates, enforce renovation at the expense of the landlord, and where that is no longer possible, must dismanthe houses and remove them from existence.

In one Assembly District of this city, the name of whose representative is a synonyme for corruption, there are a large number of houses in which whole colonies are planted a few weeks before election, to secure votes against municipal reform.
Bad tenement-houses and bad politics go hand-inhand. I plend, then, for an official investigation as to the extent of the evil; how many houses can be renovated and how many must be torn down;
who violate the laws, and what estates own houses
where the laws of health and morality are violated.
The estates are the causes of the oppression of the poor. We must strike at the estates, and thus strike th

POLITICS. There was an unusually small attendance at the meeting of the American Temperance Union in Chickering Hall, yesterday afternoon. The speakers were Miss E. W. Greenwood, of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Brooklyn, and Chauncey Shaffer, of New-York, both of whom spoke on the question of temperance education in the schools. Miss Greenwood said:

the schools. Miss Greenwood said:

We soon found that we could do nothing in the Sundayschools, for the teachers were unwilling to give up their time to this instruction. We then turned to the public schools, and knowing that without a compulsory law instruction in the physiology and hygiene of temperance would die out, we urged the Legislature to act. Such a law has already gone into effect in Michigan, New-Hampshire and Vermont, and the passage of the Gilbert bill by the Assembly last Wednesday makes it a law for the public schools of New-York,

Mr. New-March.

Mr. Shaffer said:

We older people have all been mis-educated on this question. I can remember the time when the farmer would not go out to his farm without the aid of alcohol; when the mechanic always required his alcohol before he began his work; when the preacher found his alcohol in dispensable to recover from the great efforts which he thought he ad made; when the saying for the lawyer was, "Take a blg drink and make a thundering good speech!"; when the Senator relied on it as the chief agent for parliamentary success. It has taken us all these years to set ourselves right on this question. Let us start our children right.

The great hall of Cooper Union was well filled.

The great hall of Cooper Union was well filled yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the Manhattan Temperance Association. The principal address was made by J. H. Laird, who spoke for nearly an hour upon the subject, "Whiskey in Politics." Among other things he said:

nearly an hour upon the subject. Whiskey in Politics." Among other things he said:

The essence of all the evil in American politics has its origin in whiskey. There is never a caucus or election held in this country in which whiskey is not interested. The liquor men are thoroughly and completely organized. They run the election to suit thereselves. Your men of respectability and thought stand aloof from politics and allow those men to have their own way in filling the offices of your city government. A young Irishman comes to New-York and gets a position in a saloon as assistant barkeeper at 88 a month. He sprinkles the floor with sawdust, keeps the classes clean and rubs up the brass railing in front of the bar. By and by he is promoted to the position of barkeeper. Later on he becomes proprieter and employs boys at 88 a month to carry on his business for him, so that he can devote his time to advancing the interests of the Nation. He becomes an Alderman and their graduates as a full-deduced statesman, according to the American plan. Is it any wonder that money is squandered and that the government becomes notoriously corrupt, while these whiskey statesmen remain in control of affairs?

THE BELGENLAND CRASHES INTO A PIER. THE BELGENLAND CRASHES INTO A PIER.

The Master Mechanic of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company vesterday investigated the damage done on Saturday to the company's part at the foot of Grand-st., Jersey City, by the Red Star steamer Belgenland. When the steamer came up there was a strong ebb tide, and the officer in charge determined to run the vessel up a short distance north of the pier, and let her drop down with the tide. On reaching the required distance the steamer's bow was turned toward the south; but instead of dropping gently down with the tide, the huge vessel ran nose foremost against the pier with such force that she went almost through, and remained fast for some time. The piles were broken off short, the theories was rimed un, the sulinters were sent the floor some time. The piles were broken off short, the flooring was ripped up, the splinters were sent fixing in all directions, and a part of the roof fell in. There was consternation for a time among the passengers, who were all crowded on deck, and two or three of them were thrown to the deck by the violence of the cellision, but none sustained injury. It was some time before the steamer was hauled out again and then the extent of the damage could be realized from the appearance of the great V shaped fissure in the pier. It was estimated by the railroad officials who examined the wreck that the damage could not be repaired for much less than $10,000. The repairs will be made by the railroad company which owns the pier.

THE BIBLE AND FRUIT MISSION.

The anniversary of the Bible and Fruit Mission, and of the Lodging and Coffee House connected with it, will be held at Association Hall to-morrow night. The number of visitors last year was 150, and the number of visitors last year was 150, and the number of visits 1,530. Among the articles given were 554 pieces of clothing, 11,494 oranges, 2,237 lemons, 1,540 loaves of bread, besides oysters, berries and other fruit, iee-cream, sugar, tea, etc. Many persons have been supplied gratuitously with food from the coffee-house, which has entered upon its fifth year of existence. The total number of meals served in the restaurant last year was 79,925; in hospitals, 7,975; free meals, 4,257. The lodging-house has accommodations for 100 on the upper floor at 15 cents per night, and there are small rooms with beds at a higher price. THE BIBLE AND FRUIT MISSION.

LICE-MAKING SLAVES IN BELGIUM.

From Brussels Correspondence of The London Globe. A report by M. Scalquin, a member of the School Commission of Inquiry on the Schools of Lacemakers in which young girls are employed, has just appeared, and makes most painful revelations of the manner in which these schools are conducted. In the province of East Flanders there were in 1840 only eighty-four Ecoles Bentellieres; now there are more than 300. They mostly belong to different religious communities, such as the Apostolines, the Maricoles, the Josephites, the Collectines, the Scaus de Marie and the Scaus de Charité. The age of admission is as low as five or six years. In many of the schools they are taught nothing except to work. In some an hour, often less, is devoted to reading and writing. Besides this there is nothing but the Catechism, the Litany, and the loom. What is much more serious is the time they are kept at school. In general the gates open at 5:30 in summer, and at 7 in winter, and the children are kept at work till 8:30 in summer and till 8 in winter. The regulations issued by the Bishop of Bruges fix the school hours from 6 in the morning till 6 in the evening, but these limits of time are seldom observed, and nearly always exceeded. The effects on the health of those so employed cannot be otherwise than most injurious. MORE STRANGE THINGS AT BLISSVII.I.E.

The residents of Elissville and Learel Hill are still excited over the strange sounds that have been heard recently in the vicinity of Calviry Cemercy, Many persons attribute the sepalebral voice to Rollins Johnson, the village barber, but Mr. Johnson emphatically denies that he is guilty. The police officers are positive, however, that "Johnson has caused all the trouble.

The mystery has been intensified by the introduction of a new element. John Powers, proprietor of a hotel directly opposite to St. Raphnel's Church, said yesterday:

A few nights ago, when I was on my way home from the felly Hall, I met a Bitle woman in the road back of the believoise homestead. I thought it was strange that a woman should be out alone at that boar of the hight, so I snooped, when she passed me, and soad "Good night," She made no reply, and I passed on. Soon after I turned around and she had disappeared. Where she could have gone to I don't know. There are no houses in the road, and she must bave disappeared into the bovels of the circle. MORE STRANGE THINGS AT BLESSVILLE.

Thomas Culvert, jr., of Blissville, met the same little woman on Saturday night, but did not speak to her. He said afterward:

but ran home as fast as my legs could carry me.

Hundreds of people visited the two-story frame house where the sounds were heard, yesterday, and last night the voice was distincly heard by several persons. The impression is general among people living in the neighborhood that the sound heard is not made by any living creature. While it has alarmed the wives and mothers of Blissville, it keeps their husbands and sons at home. The search for the "spock" will be continued to-night by an organized band of men.

A large deputation of Italians, representing several Italian societies of New-York, yesterday visited the cottage now occupied by Antonio Meccuci, at Cliffon, Staten Island, which was formerly the home of Garibaldi, for the purpose of placing over the door a marble tablet, on which was an inscription in Italian, which is translated as follows: "Here lived, in exile, from 1851 to 1853, the Hero of Two Worlds—Guiseppe Garibaldi, Dedicated by some friends."

of Two Worlds—Guiseppe Garibaldt. Dedicated by some friends,"
When the tablet was unveiled, Alessandro Oldrini, a compatriot of Garibaldi, made a speech culogizing Garibaldi, whom he had followed through battles and exile. G. F. Secchi de Casali spoke of the character and exploits of Garibaldi. The delegation visited the bedchamber formerly occupied by Garibaldi, where patriotic songs were sung. After which they enjoyed a banquet. Adorning the table was the motto: "We are contented with the past, we like the present, and we are hopeful of the future."

MR. HAYWARD AS A DINER-OUT.

Edmund relates how Mr. Hayward once wrote to him deprecating the description of himself as a professional diner-out, and he added; "as for the quality of the dinner, I am most undifferent." This will amuse people who have met Mr. Hayward dining-out in London, or who have stayed with him in country-houses. So far from being indifferent, he was, as a rule, a most exacting critic both of the conception and the execution of a dinner; and if the menu did not please him, or if the dishes were not to his taste, he was apt to express his dissatisfaction very loudly. Once, at Dudbrook, Lady Waldegrave was quite angry with him because he amused the company at the dinner-table with vivacious criticisms on her cook's performances, and on the evident lack of supervision in the kitchen. "The same soup three days running, and what fifthy stuff it is!"
